Short description

Filmmaker duo and archivists Dietmar Post & Lucía Palacios captured the urban folk band Christy & Emily at the famous Klangbad Festival in Southern Germany. The film was shot in one continuous 64 min long take.

"Their music is like night air - calmly moving, a gentle swirl of warm and cool, a surrounding thing." (Mike Wolf, RCRD LBL)

"A rainy day minimalism." (Pitchfork)

"Like Arthur Russell jamming with Galaxy 500." (Evan Andrews)

play loud! (live) music series (video & audio):

CONCEPT BEHIND THE SERIES:

The "play loud! (live) music series" has been initiated by filmmakers Dietmar Post & Lucía Palacios (responsible for monks – the transatlantic feedback, Reverend Billy, Klangbad, Franco's Settlers). The series parts from three ideas, Alan Lomax's work as an archivist and chronicler, John Peel's BBC radio sessions and the work of Direct Cinema pioneers, such as, Maysles Brothers, Leacock, Wildenhahn and Pennebaker. Filming live shows meant not to do it in a TV style but in a very personal, intuitive and adventurous style – nothing is staged for filming. You go along as it happens. Some of the live performances are filmed with only one camera in one continuous shot without any edits. Some critics have labeled it as "filmed paintings/painted films".

play loud!'s music films have been called: "raw", "rough", "canny", "straightforward", "adventurous", "witty", "insightful", "direct", "non-tricksy", "economic", "minimal", "unpretentious handheld camera work", "artful film paintings" ...

play loud!'s intention is to furthermore create an extensive archive of interesting popular music that includes also the possibility to screen/stream material that comes from other sources.
